The Next Stop -- Canton April 22!

Viet Parades Protest U.S. Involvement

Boy Scouts Carry Signs Saying Down With Americans

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Some 10,000 demonstrators, including a number of uniformed South Vietnamese soldiers, paraded through the streets of Da Nang today, carrying signs criticizing the Saigon government and the United States. Smaller demonstrations were held in Hue and Saigon.

A group of Boy Scouts at Da Nang carried a sign reading: "Down with the Americans! attempt of objecting to the forming of a Vietnamese National Assembly."

Other marchers included Buddhist monks and nuns and about 2,000 South Vietnamese soldiers, sailors and officers up to the rank of major.

In Saigon, medical students held a clamorous antigovernment meeting where speakers criticized the conduct of American soldiers in the city. In the old imperial capital of Hue, 50

Meeting Set In Dispute At Sterling Co.

Picket lines continued today at the Sterling China Co. pottery in Wellsville, but plant officials and members of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters were to confer Monday at 8:30 a. m. in the dispute.

Members of Local 24 set up picket lines at the 12th St. plant Friday morning. Only supervisory personnel were at work.

The dispute apparently started over working conditions in the slip house.

Wayne Rose, president of Local 24, said the negotiations Monday morning had been set up by IBOP officials.

None of the plant officials could be reached for comment. The strike has idled all 325 employees of the company.

In Finals At Lisbon

New Waterford Area Girl Victor

By BYRON EELLS

A Fairfield-Waterford eighth-grader reigned today as the county spelling champion, and with four other spellers from Beaver Local, Wellsville and East Liverpool began preparations for the district spelldown April 22 in Canton.

Terri Hawkins, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Hawkins of New Waterford R.D. 1, won the title Friday night at David Anderson High School in Lisbon, besting 31 other spellers representing public and parochial systems in the county.

JOINING TERRI in the Canton bee to determine the representative from the five-county district to the national spelldown in Washington in June will be:

KAY CRAIG, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Craig of East Liverpool R.D. 3, an eighth-grader at Beaver Local.

LEE W. CROOK JR., 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Crook of 1797 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville, an eighth-grader at Daw Junior High.

JANE DAVIS, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Davis of 481 Orchard Grove Ave., a seventh-grader at Westgate Junior High.

STEPHEN SULKES, 11, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Sulkes of 1201 Fairmont St., a sixth-grader at Lincoln.

The alternate will be Carl Weaver, 12-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Weaver of Lisbon R.D. 3 and a sixth-grader at Lisbon Lincoln. Carl inserted an "i" in "mayorality" to narrow the field to the five representatives.

It will be the first trip to the Canton contest for the five spellers. Four of last year's finalists were not eligible this year and the fifth failed to qualify.

Outside of the immediate families of the five qualifiers, one of the happiest persons in the auditorium was Mrs. Marie Graham, principal at Lincoln and Taft who saw a present pupil, Sulkes, and a former Lincoln student, Miss Davis, both advance.

Miss Ann Johnston, principal at Garfield and Horace Mann, had pronounced 313 words when Kay stumbled on "rhinoceros", substituting a "u" for the last "o". Terri spelled it correctly and then ended the bee with "vaccine".

ONLY SIX words had been used after Crook bowed out on "immigrant". Apparently thinking of "emigrant", Lee started the word with an "e".

After young Weaver's error had cut the field to five, Sulkes and Miss Davis promptly missed their next words. Steve went out on "hypocrite", starting it on "hip". Jane was eliminated on "fallacious".

Three other area spellers finished in the first nine. Andrew Bevan of Garfield bowed out on "sinister" to finish seventh, with Cynthia Gooch of Wellsville ranking eighth after misspelling "tobogganing". Leila Morris of No. 16 School ended up in ninth place after erring on "granule".

Dana Cameron of No. 16 missed "eligible"; James Burgess of East Junior High, "bellwether"; Michael Rolley of Westgate Junior High, "amortization"; Mary Frances McDermott of St. Aloysius "damson"; and Judy McPeak of Immaculate Conception in Wellsville "onus".

Bob Brown of Pleasant Heights misspelled "odious"; Janis Salajczyk of Wellsville, the only fifth-grader in the bee, went down on "possessed"; Kathy Kidder of East Junior High missed "inspector", and

U.S. Marines Hunt Elusive Communists

Kill 8 Viet Cong, Capture 2 During Coastal Operations

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Marine divisions working out of Da Nang and Chu Lai broke up into numerous small units today in a new search for the elusive Viet Cong and reported that 581 various operations turned up only a handful of the enemy.

The Leathernecks conducted patrols, laid ambushes, set up listening posts, scout, sniper and search and destroy missions in the central coastal plains once bristling with bands of Viet Cong.

They killed eight Viet Cong, captured two and got two weapons. Eight sampans were sunk.

The experience of the Marines was duplicated by the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division in a two-brigade search for a North Vietnamese regiment which put up a stiff fight in the Chu Phong mountains along the Cambodian border. But now the enemy regiment apparently has chosen to fade away.

The only contact made today was a flash fight with a platoon. Associated Press photographer Rick Merron reported one company of the Air Cavalry ran into the platoon at 1 p. m. only about 100 yards from the spot where the troopers killed more than 100 of the enemy Wednesday.

Local Youth Loses Life As Cars Hit

Donald Ice Victim Of 3-Car Accident In Pennsylvania

An East Liverpool youth died instantly of multiple injuries following a three-car accident on Pennsylvania Route 68 at Smiths Ferry Friday afternoon.

Donald Ice, 18, of 258 1/2 Ridge-way Ave. died of head and internal injuries after his car struck head-on an auto driven by Edward Petroske of 425 Beaver Ave., Midland, and glanced into another car operated by Robert Duke of 243 W. 7th St. The accident occurred at 1:05.

Ice was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ice.

Two passengers in the Ice auto were listed in "fair" condition today at City Hospital. They are Burton Smith, son of Mrs. Lillie Smith, 13 F Midland Heights, Midland, and Thomas Harper, stepson of Richard Stone of 52 Midcrest Manor, Midland.

Smith suffered lacerations of the left hand and face and Harper suffered a dislocated right shoulder and a fractured right thumb.

Petroske suffered contusions of the left arm and was treated and released, while his wife, Ann, a passenger in the auto, was reported in "fair" condition with a dislocated right hip.

Duke, who refused treatment at the time of the accident, was treated and released at 6 p. m. for contusions of the legs and ribs.

The accident occurred at the brow of a hill about a half mile east of the Ohio state line when Ice, who was traveling west, attempted to pass a car at a high rate of speed and struck the Petroske auto head-on, glancing off it into the Duke car which was following Petroske, police said.

The impact of the crash ripped off the left side of Ice's 1966 four-door hardtop.

Assistant Police Chief Michael Haydn of Ohioville said the accident is still under investigation.

The Beaver County coroner, Dr. John Colavincenzo, reported that Ice died of severe head and internal injuries.

Ice was Beaver County's 17th traffic fatality of 1966. He was born in Darlington

Strike In Third Day

Railroads Seek Contempt Ruling Against Firemen

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge ordered the striking Railroad Firemen's Union today to show cause why it should not be held in contempt of court and fined $500,000 for every day it continues its walkout on eight of the nation's major railroads.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Railroad attorneys went into court today to seek contempt of court findings against the striking AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, now in the third day of a walkout in defiance of a federal court order.

U.S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff, who earlier this week issued a temporary restraining order to halt all strikes on eight major railroads, scheduled a hearing for 11 a. m. on the railroads' request to find the union in contempt.

The action was a flat rejection of one of the conditions the union had set Friday as a price for ending the walkout.

Obviously the railroads hoped the potential penalties of contempt would force a return to work.

Facing a federal court injunction, union president H. E. Gilbert offered to end the walkout if the eight railroads involved agree there will be no reprisals against the 8,000 strikers and that no damage suits or contempt of court actions will be pressed.

The railroads' chief negotiator, J. E. Wolfe, promptly replied: "Pending litigation will be progressed." He said the question of court action for damages will be up to each railroad president.

Later, Wolfe added he believed the strike will end today.

Gilbert said he was awaiting reports from vice presidents of his AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, who were getting in touch with the individual railroads. "I am certain agreement will be reached," he said.

The strike was against these eight railroads: Union Pacific, the country's largest; the Missouri Pacific; Illinois Central; Seaboard Air Line; Central of Georgia; Grand Trunk Western, Pa.

The strike disrupted service on 43,000 miles of line and bit into the nation's economy. It caused some 100,000 persons to be thrown off their jobs or work a shorter day, resulted in traffic jams, tied up freight movements, stranded passengers and delayed the mails.

Firemen walked off their jobs at 12:01 a. m. Thursday on expiration of a 1963 federal arbitration board ruling that carriers could eliminate up to 90 per cent of their yard and freight firemen. Since then, about 18,000 firemen's jobs have been wiped out.

Gilbert said the strike was called because carriers would not negotiate on a union demand for an apprentice training program. Railroad officials said the walkout was an attempt to force carriers to bargain to restore the eliminated jobs.

U.S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff in Washington issued a temporary restraining order sought by the railroads Thursday, telling the firemen to go back to work because "we have a war, and also the entire public is affected, aside from the war."

Firemen then asked a U.S. Court of Appeals here to stay the order. In a 2-1 decision Friday, the higher court declined to interfere.

A few hours later, Gilbert met with Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and then told a news conference the union would end the strike if the railroads would meet the conditions. In Chicago, Wolfe agreed the railroads would not conduct reprisals against individual workers. "We feel that these men were misled by the union officers," Wolfe said.

But Wolfe said it would be up to each railroad president to decide about possible court action.

Flames Level Farm House

Structure Struck Near Hookstown

Fire leveled a Greene Township farm house Friday about 7:30 p. m. near Hookstown.

The home, a one- and a-half story structure owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Rice of Greene Township, was destroyed before firemen were able to reach the scene.

Donald Morgan, South Side fire chief, said the department was called at 7:30, but by the time firemen reached the home, located a half mile off Route 30, near Laughlin's Corners, "it was too late to save the building."

The firemen stayed on the scene for two hours to keep the blaze from spreading to a barn and chicken house.

There was no one home at the time, firemen said. Morgan reported there was no estimate of loss and the cause of the fire is being investigated.

farmer and cattleman who sought the same post in 1964. Hold-over commissioners are R. Max Gard of near Lisbon and Frank Wilson of Wellsville, both Democrats.

In the only other race on either ticket, a newspaper editor and a butcher are seeking the Democratic nomination for state representative.

The aspirants are Roy Allen, editor of the weekly Columbiana Ledger, and Richard K. Walborn of Homeworth, a meat-cutter in a Beloit market.

THE UNOPPOSED Democratic incumbents are Auditor Kenneth Bell, a Wellsville grocer seeking his third four-year term, and Probate and Juvenile Court Judge Louis Tobin of St. Clair Ave., asking a third six-year term.

State Rep. Clarence L. (Dutch) Wetzel of near Lisbon is unopposed for the GOP nomination for a ninth two-year term.

Columbiana County's seat in the State House of Representatives is known as the 34th District. The district lies wholly within the county.

Council President Ernest A. Lowe of Wedgewood St. is unopposed for the GOP nomination for auditor. Elected to the city post last November, he is vice president of the Mason Color & Chemical Works, Inc.

The county also will help decide two wide-open races for nomination of state senate candidates in the new 30th District. The 18th District candidates for U. S. Congress are unopposed.

Four Democrats and three Republicans are seeking nomination for the state senate seat. The district is comprised of Columbiana, Jefferson, Harrison and Carroll Counties and the eastern half of Tuscarawas County.

THE DEMOCRATIC field is comprised of: Robert L. Hays, president of the Steubenville Board of Education; State Sen. Danny D. Johnson of New Philadelphia, now a resident of the 30th District because of legislative reapportionment; Arthur R. Bowers, now serving his sixth term as a Steubenville councilman, and Joseph Loha, a Steubenville attorney and former Jefferson County prosecutor.

Columbiana County has two men in the race for the GOP nomination for state senator. They are Donald W. Elliott, Rogers attorney and member of the County Board of Education, and John Longworth, 26, of Salem, a recent graduate of Rutgers University.

Also on the GOP slate is Robert M. Bell of Steubenville, a Weirton Steel Co. employee and 18th Congressional District member of the GOP State Central Committee. Bell also is seeking return to the party post.

COLUMBIANA County formerly was part of the 20th-22nd District and was represented by Edmund A. Sargus of Bellaire, Belmont County. But Belmont County was not included in the realignment that created the 30th District and Sargus announced he would not seek to return to the state senate from the district in which he now resides.

Sen. Johnson, now seeking the nomination in the 30th District, formerly served the 17th, 18th, 19th and 28th District. He first was named to the senate in 1958.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Flushing, the veteran Democratic 18th District congressman, is unopposed for nomination for a 10th term.

Hays will run in the general election against William H. Weir of Salem, the unopposed Republican candidate. Weir formerly was safety supervisor at the State Highway Department's Division 11 headquarters in New Philadelphia, but resigned when filling for congressman.

Hays, 54, has represented the district in Congress since 1948.

Also realigned from its former boundaries, the congressional district now is made up of Columbiana, Jefferson, Belmont, Tuscarawas, Harrison, Monroe and Noble Counties. Before the change it was comprised of Columbiana, Jefferson, Belmont, Carroll and Harrison Counties.

Viet Nam

The firefight was brisk but brief. Nine Viet Cong were killed.

The 2nd Brigade of the 25th Infantry Division scouring 25 miles northwest of Saigon also failed to uncover any major Viet Cong units. But it had minor contact today when an enemy grenade attack was launched from ambush. The infantry retorted in kind, killing two Viet Cong and capturing a Chinese Communist carbine, four U.S. hand grenades and documents.

The infantry also counted two dead Viet Cong snipers during the day. One was shot from an armed helicopter. A tunnel complex yielded 400 tons of rice.

U.S. Marines landed on the southern coast of the special zone called Rung Sat and worked up to 18 miles south of Saigon. They encountered no resistance during the day but sent back word they had found an extensive system of camps, bunkers, arms caches and supply dumps. Demolition squads blew them up.

This is the increasing pattern of the growing American ground power forcing the Viet Cong to quit their old sanctuaries and then rendering those havens inoperable.

Forty three missions, 34 of them by the Air Force and 9 by Navy carrier planes, were flown Friday over North Viet Nam's roads, bridges and supply line. Poor weather restricted observation of bomb damage. Most of the drops were done by radar control through heavy haze and cloud cover.

Named Deputy Mayor

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Mayor John S. Ballard has named George Vaughan, his executive secretary, as deputy mayor, effective April 7. A salary increase of $3,200 a year goes with the new job for Vaughan, who has been at the $7,200 level.

miles north of Da Nang, 3,000 persons demonstrated for a return to civilian government through national elections. The demonstrations were similar to others held recently throughout the country.

All the demonstrations have been openly hostile to the central government headed by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, and the anti-American overtones have become increasingly louder.

Thousands have taken part in the marches, but observers here and elsewhere have come up with no estimate as yet of the general support of the street rallies.

Many observers, however, agree that the demonstrations are directed from a central source, that they have been well planned and are as well organized as any that have ever taken place in Viet Nam.

There is a feeling, especially in the official U.S. community, that the chances of survival for the present military government may depend on whether the current protests remain scattered and relatively isolated.

The demonstrations have caused concern among American officials both in Viet Nam and Washington.

U.S. Consul Samuel B. Thomson warned Americans in Da Nang to avoid crowds and stay off the streets as much as possible.

"Manifestations and other civil disturbances have taken on an anti-American tone," he said. "This situation provides the opportunity for Communists or other dissident forces to attempt to act against Americans. Individuals or groups may seek to involve Americans in incidents."

In Washington, a House subcommittee indefinitely postponed plans to visit Viet Nam at the request of the State Department.

The House Government Operations subcommittee had planned to start today for Viet Nam to investigate the U.S. air programs. Subcommittee chairman Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., said the trip would be rescheduled "as soon as the current situation clears up."

New Sign Needed On Slow-Moving Farm Vehicles

LISBON — Farmers must now display on slow-moving vehicles the new emblem designed for the equipment if they are to be on the road at night. Although the sign is required only at night, its daytime use also is recommended, officials said.

The new law requiring the emblem became effective Friday.

The emblem is triangular, with a bright fluorescent orange center and red reflector border. It must be displayed on vehicles three to five feet from the ground so that it is visible at least 500 feet to the rear. It must be displayed with the point upwards.

The emblem is available at most machinery, feed and other equipment dealers in the county.

No longer required is a flashing red light. However, the standard red light to the rear and the white light to the front are still mandatory.

Evolution Trial

Second Of Century In Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — anyone believed or didn't believe about the evolution theory or the anti-evolution law had nothing to do with whether the century's second "monkey trial."

Both sides said they would appeal, first to the State Supreme Court and then the U.S. Supreme Court, if necessary.

Reed gave opposing sides 40 days in which to file additional information and replies to briefs. There was no indication when he will announce his ruling.

The issue is whether Arkansas anti-evolution law is constitutional. It was adopted in a statewide election in 1928 and is one of three anti-evolution laws remaining in the nation. The others are in Tennessee and Mississippi.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett's plans to defend the law by attacking the validity of the evolution theory were blocked.

Eugene Warren, attorney for the plaintiffs, objected almost 100 times during the 2 1/2 hour trial to efforts by Bennett to introduce opinions about the validity of Charles Darwin's evolution theory and whether the anti-evolution law was reasonable.

"Are you going to stand there and object to everything?" Bennett asked at one point.

"I am as long as you keep asking improper questions," Warren said.

Warren contended that what

Two Face Hearings

NEW CUMBERLAND — Two persons were committed to the Hancock County Jail here in default of payment of $1,500 bond each after being charged by deputies at Waterford Park race track Friday night with passing bad checks totaling $825.

They were identified as James A. Spencer, 34, no address, and Carol A. Swavely, 24, of Warmminster, Pa.

They will face a hearing before Squire John D. Herron on Tuesday.

Action Slated On Bond Sale For St. Clair

Council is scheduled to act Monday night on legislation authorizing sale of $306,000 in municipal bonds, representing the final step in financing the city's share of the $850,000 improvement completed in 1965.

Approximately $204,000 of the issue will represent the share of the project cost that will be paid from city funds, while about $102,000 represents the sum still outstanding in special assessments against owners of adjoining property. The property owners' share was $143,000 in all, but $41,000 in special assessments already has been paid.

The legislation will authorize Auditor L. J. Zollinger to advertise for bids and award the issue to the investment firm which offers the lowest rate of interest. The bonds will be retired over a 10-year period.

The step is customary in all such major projects. Proceeds of the bond issue will be utilized to retire short-term notes that were issued earlier to pay the costs of the project as it proceeded. Special assessments collected through the county auditor's office at Lisbon will retire the amount still outstanding in special assessments.

Federal funds paid half the cost of the project, or about $360,000.

Council also is scheduled to legislate for establishment of a low-cost housing project in East Liverpool. Council and the administration conferred on the step Tuesday night with the board of directors of the Columbus Metropolitan Housing Authority.

Legislation also will be presented to change the name of a short stretch of street now known officially as "Mildred Ave." It will be altered to "Garner Ave.," the name now applied to a street that intersects St. Clair Ave. from the west in Maplewood. The segment now known as "Mildred Ave." lies to the east of St. Clair.

Second reading also is scheduled on an ordinance setting up new fees and regulations for street opening permits. The legislation was given first reading at the meeting on March 21. Further action was delayed because some members objected to a fee of $50 for a permit for opening a concrete-surfaced street.

Man To Face Charge As Result Of Mishap

A Lisbon area man was arrested on a drunk driving charge after an accident Friday at 2:45 p.m. on Route 45, seven-tenths of a mile north of Lisbon.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said the crash involved cars operated by Charles D. Guy, 51, of Lisbon R.D. 5 and Forrest E. Martin, 53, of Lisbon R.D. 1.

Martin was slowing to make a right turn and was hit in the rear by Guy, officers said.

Hamilton Man Held By FBI As Fugitive

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — William D. Griffin, 38, of Hamilton, was arrested here Friday by an FBI agent on a fugitive warrant.

He reportedly escaped a year ago from the London Correctional Institution. He was serving a term from Clinton County for forgery.

25 Million Members 7 Protestant Churches Outline Plans To Merge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of seven Protestant churches with a total of 25 million members have outlined plans to merge. But one bishop estimated complete unification may take at least 50 years.

The churches have been working on the plan for four years, it was disclosed Friday. Representatives of the seven denominations will meet in Dallas, Tex., May 2-5 to continue discussions.

The denominations are the Protestant Episcopal Church, the United Presbyterian Church, the Methodist Church, the International Convention of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ), Evangelical United Brethren Church, the United Church of Christ, and the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

The long-range nature of the proposal was emphasized at a news conference here Friday by Episcopal Bishop Robert F. Gibson Jr. of Richmond, Va., chairman of the Consultation on Church Union, a special commission appointed to draft a unification plan. He was joined by the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of San Francisco, a Presbyterian and general secretary-elect of the World Council of Churches.

They unveiled a 105-page document relating to unification and dealing with such theological subjects as sacraments and baptism. It will be discussed further at the Dallas meeting, the fifth such consultation on possible unity of the denominations.

"This is not a plan of union," Bishop Gibson said. "This has not been agreed upon by anybody. This is an outline of possible union."

He stressed that the proposal will be subject to continual discussion and revision and estimated it may take as long as 50 years to accomplish full unification.

The outlined proposal on church structure lists these six steps toward unification:

1. Consultation — already in progress.
2. Acceptance of the outline of a unity plan — which may or may not be achieved at the Dallas meeting.
3. Adoption of a plan of union.
4. Actual unification of members and clergy, with each denomination retaining a degree of sovereignty but surrendering some autonomy.
5. Writing and adoption of a constitution.
6. Achievement of the goal of a united Christianity, the step beyond unification of denominations.

Gibson said it might take 4 to 10 years between the second third steps and a generation between the fourth and fifth.

Both Gibson and Blake, however, said there probably always would be differences in forms and rituals between the various denominations, especially regarding the sacraments and baptism.

Drawings, Model Unveiled Of Ohio Historical Center

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Architect's drawings and a model of the $10 million Ohio Historical Society Center at the State Fairgrounds was unveiled Friday and Gov. James A. Rhodes quickly predicted the center would be "a showcase of Ohio's past."

The society displayed its plans in the governor's office and Rhodes called the blueprint "a giant step" in the preservation of Ohio history.

The center is to be constructed on a 58-acre site on the fairgrounds, between the Highway Patrol Academy and Interstate 71.

"With this and other improvements at the fairgrounds, we can go from a fair at the bottom, attract 1.5 million to the fair and go to the top three state fairs in the nation," Rhodes said.

Thieves And Vandals Strike At Cars Here

Thieves and vandals hit two autos Friday, police reported.

Mrs. James C. Jones of 1205 Erie St. told officers last night that she returned from a dance to find the left rear window of her 1965 auto broken. The car had been parked on Kent St., she said.

John Bird of 963 W. 8th St. reported yesterday that thieves stole an auto radio laying on the seat, two quarts of oil and 10 gallons of gasoline from his unlocked auto between 11 p.m. Thursday and 6 a.m. yesterday.

2 Sentenced As Red Spies To Be Freed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Biochemist Harry Gold and one-time Foreign Service officer Irvin C. Scarbeck, sentenced to long prison terms for passing U.S. secrets to Communist countries, have been ordered freed on parole next month.

The Federal Board of Parole Friday granted them freedom — Scarbeck on May 2, Gold on May 18 — from the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. Both were convicted after sensational national security trials.

Gold, 55, a native of Switzerland, received a 30-year sentence Dec. 9, 1950, after he had been convicted of conspiring with Klaus Fuchs and others to deliver U.S. defense secrets to the Soviet Union from 1943 to 1947. He has served 15 years and will remain under parole supervision until July 1960.

Scarbeck, 45, a Brooklyn, N.Y., native, is serving three concurrent 10-year terms for providing classified documents to the Polish security police while he was serving as second secretary of the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw. He has been in prison for 4 1/2 years and will remain under parole supervision until February 1973.

The parole board said the two had good prison records and had been helpful in prison programs.

Gold pleaded guilty and, after his arrest, cooperated with the FBI in investigating Fuchs, David Greenglass and Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. He testified at the trial of the Rosenbergs, who were executed in the electric chair for their role in peddling U.S. atomic secrets to the Russians.

Scarbeck was convicted Oct. 27, 1961, after a widely publicized trial in which his Polish mistress testified.

A married man with three children by his second wife, Scarbeck said he had submitted to demands by Red agents for the classified documents to spare his family and protect his Polish mistress. Testimony developed that Polish authorities had threatened to imprison her.

The woman, Ursula Marie Discher, was brought here from Poland to testify at the trial. Afterwards she returned to Poland.

Scarbeck was originally sentenced to 30 years in prison, but a federal appeals court ordered the trial court to reduce his sentence to three concurrent 10-year terms.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fire apparently caused by a cigarette dropped on a sofa, swept through a south side home Friday night, killing a 32-year-old man.

Jack C. Tumlin was dead on arrival at Mercy Hospital after an attempt by fireman Robert Fink at mouth-to-mouth resuscitation failed to revive him at the fire scene.

54 Car Crashes Listed In March; 9 Suffer Injury

East Liverpool police investigated 54 auto mishaps during March in which nine persons were injured.

In addition, five pedestrians were hurt when struck by moving vehicles.

The department answered 636 calls for assistance or investigations, making 66 arrests. Only one motorist was cited on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

There were 12 casualty reports — incidents in which persons were injured, aside from traffic. Three missing persons reports were received. The department received six reports of stolen autos, clearing three of them by arrests.

There were seven burglaries, 13 cases of petty larceny and 15 vandalism incidents. Nine autos were towed away, most of them as the result of traffic accidents.

The statistics are compiled monthly by Capt. Robert H. Pyle for use of the local department and other agencies, including the Federal Bureau of Investigation's uniform crime reports, the State Department of Highway Safety and the National Safety Council.

THE SHELTERED LOOK

Webster defines shelter as a place of refuge and safety. We think a feeling of shelter is a good one to express in our bedroom. This is the home's most personal room and the place where we spend one-third of our days.

There are several factors that contribute to a feeling of shelter. First on the list is color. Soft, unobtrusive shades are preferable. Often a monochromatic scheme (several shades of one color) will give a small room a more spacious feeling.

Having things around you that you love will promote a feeling of shelter, but — in the bedroom especially — they should be artfully arranged to avoid the appearance of clutter.

Soft gold tones comprise the color scheme in the bedroom sketched above. Patterned draperies in several shades of gold repeat the shades in the deep-toned bedspread, paler walls and carpet.

Enemy Within The Gates

Another successful attack on U.S. forces in Saigon, itself, heightens skepticism about native support for a war supposedly being fought for the benefit of the people who live in South Viet Nam.

If continued political unrest causes the South Vietnamese government to be overthrown and if demonstrations against the United States continue to grow in size and intensity, it may be necessary to abandon all pretense about the nature of U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

One item of pretense already has been abandoned. The United States no longer pretends it is helping South Viet Nam to fight the Viet Cong and its allies. The United States now is fighting the Viet Cong with the help of South Viet Nam and trying to get more help from other nations.

It is now a U.S. war effort. Whatever can be achieved in the way of political reform and social improvement for the benefit of the people of South Viet Nam will be an extra advantage, but it will have relatively little effect on South Viet Nam's value as a military ally. The war is between the United States and the Viet Cong.

The enemy is within the gates of Siagon as well as scattered through the countryside. He is in a nearby vehicle in a traffic-congested street. He is a Vietnamese pedestrian walking down the same street. He is a peasant in the country, a traveler on the highway, a student waving a picket sign.

The figment that the United States is in Southeast Asia to rescue a viable nation from an invader has come apart at the seams. The United States is in Southeast Asia because it drifted into a situation in Asiatic politics without knowing in advance what was going to happen.

It said it was going to rescue South Viet Nam and now it is querulously asking its friends why they show no interest in rescuing the United States.

Where's Point Of No Return?

It was certain the March 31 deadline for the medicare signup would be extended past March 31, once March 31 finally had been reached.

The only way to move people into signing up for anything is to set a deadline, then another deadline, then another, until everybody has had a chance to act. The question now, with Congress expected to set a new medicare deadline, is where the point of no return finally will be reached.

There will be a hard-core residue of elderly men and women who will stay out of the doctor-bill section of medicare under any circumstances. They will exercise the option in the medicare law to say No.

There will be another group of elderly persons who will fail to sign up because of circumstances that make it impossible for them to act in their own behalf. Some of them never will hear about medicare; they are out of

Harold Wilson's Sure Thing

In the flush of a runaway victory over Britain's Conservative party, Prime Minister Harold Wilson must wonder why anyone in his right mind should want to hold the job. There will be no runaway victories in the contests that await him and his expanded parliamentary majority.

They will have to cope with budget difficulties and monetary values. But they will be facing these tough problems with firmer assurance of strong popular backing than they had dared to expect at this early stage of their political trusteeship.

A significant change apparently has reacted to the benefit of the British Labor party. It has become the refuge of British moderates. Although the Conservative party in Britain occupies a place in the spectrum that would be well to the left of a middle position in U.S. politics, it now represents in British politics the far right.

Prime Minister Wilson's Labor party, on the other hand, has its own far leftists to contend with, but it has come to signify to many Britons the middle position in their political spectrum.

If they continue to support it on that basis, and if the party's own moderates can control its extremists, labor could stay in charge of the government a long time. There may be no more sure thing elections like the one held Thursday, but the odds now are in their favor.

Mr. Wilson has shown great aptitude for government by consensus, perhaps in imitation of an adroit politician overseas who has mastered the art.

Is It A National Emergency?

The showdown in the railroad strike will come over the issue of national emergency.

The federal courts and the federal government will not be inclined to exert their ultimate authority unless it can be demonstrated that continuation of the strike will do major damage to the national interest.

There can be no question about damage to the national interest, of course. The question ultimately will be the degree of damage—whether continuation of the strike will affect military operations in Viet Nam, whether the national economy will be seriously affected, whether the United States can keep things going with railroad service tied up in parts of 38 states.

The striking railroaders have no other bargaining recourse. As they have been careful to point out, they are not striking over issues that already have been settled in law and in the courts. They are striking over their contention that the railroad industry has not been living up to the letter and spirit of its agreement to ease the transition from employment at their regular jobs for firemen.

This has not been a public issue. But it is a legitimate issue between firemen and railroad management, and until it has been threshed out, or until the federal government feels called on to declare a national emergency, the strike may be expected to continue.

Dear Nephew: We are well here and hope you are the same, only better.

Truth is, we are only as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

I am having trouble with my bad ear — the one on the side where I was kicked by a fool horse that tried to kill me at various times by kicking me, leaning on me, even rolling on me once when I was playing cowboy.

Your aunt is having trouble with the trick knee that pops out of joint when she runs downhill. She insists she got it playing field hockey when she was a growing girl, but I have done research on this and discovered field hockey hadn't been invented when she was growing.

Both of us have been nursing a mystery in our digestive systems brought on by over-indulgence in Philadelphia scrapple, buckwheat cakes, sausage, liverwurst, apple fritters, baking powder biscuits, pork gravy and chitlings.

We realize the necessity of going easy on things like this when sulphur and blackstrap molasses are in order, but it's like going on a binge. Before long we'll switch to diets more suitable for warm weather. We're having a last fling before strawberry shortcake, platters of sliced cucumbers marinated in vinegar and sour cream, corn meal mush and fresh maple sirup, buttered parsnips and early onions.

Aside from these routine infirmities we are as well as could be expected under the circumstances. I have a stabbing pain in my right shoulder caused from tugging too hard on a stump I was prying out of the ground.

Your aunt has a gimpy leg, really a bruised toe, which she brought on herself when she was firing the furnace. That woman always has overloaded the coal shovel. If I've warned her once, I've warned her a thousand times about dropping a lump on her toe. She did. She is going to lose the nail on the big toe of her right foot. I warned her.

We both need new eyeglasses, but we are putting it off until they come back to steel wire frames, with hook-on gizmos over the ears. We wonder if the geniuses who designed the ridiculous frames they're using now ever weeded a garden or mowed a lawn with glasses that slid down their noses.

It may take a while for the spectacles industry to come to its senses, but we can be patient. The glasses we're wearing now are still holding up well after 20 years. What I can't see with my own I can see with your aunt's and vice versa.

This concludes the up-to-date medical history of your aunt and uncle. We are well as could be expected under the circumstances. If you want to look on the bright side, we're a darned sight better. Most people our age have been dead for a number of years.

Say hello to your missus for us.

Oklahoma's first education system was established in the 1830's by the area's five civilized tribes. The system was so effective that during the 19th century many Cherokees, Choctaws, Greeks, Chickasaws and Seminoles could read Greek and Latin, while the white traders and trappers who dealt with them could not even sign their own names.

Nation Faces Rash Of Strikes

By Victor Riesel

All is not very quiet on this western front. On the land (and deep in it), on the sea and in the air there is deep agitation which presages an unseasonably hot spring in labor's ranks.

Money—in cash not fringes—is the root of all this upheaval.

There are threats of serious strikes, which may break just about vacation time, on five nationwide airlines, on some of 190 major railroads, at electric and electronic plants, in coal mines, in a couple of powerhouses, at a space base or two and on several billion dollars' worth of construction projects. From there on out it may be catching.

Already there is guerrilla warfare—aimed as much against the White House and its Council of Economic Advisers as against the major corporations.

If red pins were stuck into an industrial map of the nation, it would appear that the land has scarlet fever.

The battle cry is: To hell with the national wage guidelines.

Railroad unions want a 25 per cent increase. Electrical workers want at least a 13 per cent increase. Commercial airline employees want a 15 per cent increase.

THE COAL DIGGERS—or what's left of the once mighty force of pit men—say not what they really want—because the White House has been pressuring their comparatively unknown leader William Anthony (Tony) Boyle to go easy on cash demands.

The White House people tried such persuasion on the building and construction union chiefs but simply were told to go to hell by one of their leaders and were charged by another with having their public relations men "throw rocks" at the unions.

No great cultural semantics is growing out of all this. But the entire conflict can be summed up with the laconic words of one Boston picket:

"I don't want no fringes. I want my lousy money now. I'm 25 years old and pensions just don't worry me yet."

In another cogent contribution to modern culture, "Doc" James E. Wolfe, spokesman for the nation's railroads, retorted to demands of Railroad Clerks, Locomotive Firemen and Engineers for raises of 18 to 25 per cent: "They're absolutely nuts. They're not going to get it or anything like it."

PERHAPS THEY WON'T. But there will be an extraordinary push by some mighty influential unions. Their affection for President Johnson in no way dilutes their distaste for the White House's 3.2 per cent wage guideline increase.

There will be economic war. It should be said that no one group of men basically is responsible for what will happen.

Everybody is caught in a big squeeze. Most of the pressure comes from the new youth. Now in their twenties, they have no proletarian heroes.

They know little of labor history. They are lately come upon the old timers, who are their union leaders. The younger rank-and-file feel, "We hire them. We pay them. Now let them deliver."

Caught up in the booming wartime cost of living, they want cash and holidays. Job security no longer is a problem. They can get work anywhere. They want cash now and holidays and double time and longer vacations. Who doesn't?

They also have an eye for early retirement—not for themselves, but for the older men. If the latter move out, the young people will move up.

AS THEY PUSH, the middle age group goes along with them. And the companies, though earning fine profits, are caught in the middle as are the understanding labor leaders.

They know an outbreak of peace will leave them with a bottom-breaking market and a top-side wage pattern.

Typical are the coal diggers. Their industry now is booming. So they pressure their new leaders, Tony Boyle, to get them more cash as well as new "fringes."

The White House pressures Boyle not to ask for too much cash. And Boyle knows that if he doesn't deliver, he'll face new rank-and-file revolts, such as those which have been flaring through the coal fields.

It's the way of today's rank-and-file to talk back. Typical, indeed, are the words of the New York Kennedy Airport Machinists' lodge, which flashed the following notice to their international offices now crisis-bargaining with five major airlines:

"This lodge has no intention of conforming with the guideline concept of 3.2 per cent. It rejects in total the concept. . . . It further demands that its International exceed 3.2 per cent in the current negotiations. . . ."

They mean it. They'll strike to prove they mean it. So will the others.

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:
An apology to Bobby Brown at the city spelling bee last week at East Junior High. Bobby Brown of Pleasant Heights was spelled down on the word diagramming, which is the way Bobby spelled it. The word was listed on the pronouncer's and judges list as diagraming. (In my mind I questioned the spelling at the time, but did not have the courage to back up my convictions and did nothing about it. The bee rules clearly state that any objection must be made immediately however, after the finish I checked Webster's dictionary, the official dictionary for the bee, and found that Bobby's version was as acceptable as the version on the list.

Again my apology to Bobby Brown, but the fact remains if there was any doubt as to the spelling of this word or any other word it should not have appeared on the list. In the future will whoever is in charge please check and double check to see this does not happen again, as it is not worth one boy's disappointment.

"Don't think of it as $75 for the outfit . . . Think of it as a small investment for the time when the majors start bidding a hundred thousand for him!"

An Oligarchy

By David Lawrence

Court Called Law Of The Land

Five out of nine justices of the Supreme Court of the United States now constitute a form of government unparalleled in world history. Oligarchies have come and gone, but none has controlled to so great an extent the destinies of so many people.

Just a few days ago a profound change was made in America's system of government, but the protests heard since have in large part been ignored by a public that is apathetic because of the lack of explanation of what's happening and the dangers David Lawrence involved.

The implications are far-reaching. The Supreme Court ruled that no state can pass a law fixing a qualification of voters that requires a fee of $1.50 a year. Hardly anybody likes a poll tax as a prerequisite to voting but when a state wants to collect such a tax to defray the costs of elections or to help pay for public-school education and doesn't apply the tax in any discriminatory form, it's difficult to see why the state should be forbidden to do so.

The Supreme Court majority, however, now says that "voter qualifications have no relation to wealth nor to paying this or any other tax."

TWO DISSENTING JUSTICES, on the other hand, declared:

"It's also arguable, indeed it was probably accepted as sound political theory by a large percentage of Americans through most of our history, that people with some property have a deeper stake in community affairs, and are consequently more responsible, more educated, more knowledgeable, more worthy of confidence, than those without means, and that the community and nation would be better managed if the franchise were restricted to such citizens. Non-discriminatory and fairly applied literacy tests, upheld by this court (in Lassiter vs. Northhampton Education Board), find justification on very similar grounds."

Justice Harlan in his dissenting opinion, joined by Justice Stewart, declared also that it is the function of state legislatures to pass laws to reflect changes in popular attitudes but that "it is all wrong" for the court to "adopt the political doctrines popularly accepted at a particular moment of our history and to declare all others to be irrational and invidious, barring them from the range of choice by reasonably minded people acting through the political process."

Justice Black, who also dissented in a separate opinion, said he doesn't like poll taxes but that, "if basic changes as to the respective powers of the state and national governments are needed, I prefer to let those changes be made by amendment as Article V of the Constitution provides."

THE MAJORITY OPINION, written by Justice Douglas, relies on the clause of the 14th Amendment which guarantees all citizens "equal protection of the law," but Justice Harlan and Stewart point out that this phrase "has never been thought to require equal treatment of all persons despite differing circumstances." Thus, for many decades in our history women were not permitted to vote, but the Supreme Court didn't rewrite or amend the Constitution to bring about woman suffrage. It left this to the people to do, and a specific amendment against such discrimination was adopted by Congress and ratified by the State Legislatures in 1920.

Nowadays the 14th Amendment is being used by a majority of the Supreme Court to uphold any interpretation of the Constitution that is deemed desirable or believed to be in keeping with supposedly popular opinion.

There was a time when the justices ruled on the basis of what the Constitution actually says, and the judiciary rightly disregarded what Justice Harlan calls "the individual notions and predilections of its own members."

SO HERE ARE THREE of the nine justices of the highest court in the land calling public attention to what they consider an abuse of power. The Supreme Court justices are appointed for life. They cannot be impeached or removed merely because of their viewpoint. Congress, however, does have the power to limit the jurisdiction of the court and, by two-thirds vote, to submit to the people an amendment taking away such power from the Supreme Court.

The Constitution now is being written not by the people but by the most absolute oligarchy in public office within any so-called democracy of today.

A MOMENT OF MEDITATION

Where Is The Scripture?

Since a preacher is dealing with the souls of men, he ought to be very careful to teach only those things which meet the approval of God. Since he is interested in saving souls, he ought to have a hatred for every false way. Ps.119-104 "Through thy precepts I get understanding, therefore I hate every false way." A preacher ought to realize that he will account to God for the teaching he does. In view of this responsibility every preacher ought to be ready to show by the Bible that what he is teaching is the truth. We are commanded to speak only as the oracles of God. 1 Pet. 4:11. We have no right to presume where God has not spoken. David prayed that the Lord would keep him from presumptuous sins. Ps. 19:13.

All should feel free to ask their preacher concerning the teaching he does. If he is teaching the truth, he will be happy to show by the Bible that his teaching is from God. If he is not happy when an honest soul asks for the scripture to back his teaching, this might suggest that he is teaching something without Bible authority. You ought to feel free to question your preacher.

Have you ever asked your preacher for the scriptures that authorize the wearing of a name in religion other than the name of Christ? Various human names are being worn by people today in religion. Are these names really authorized?

The disciples of Christ glorified Him by wearing His name. "... And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch." Acts 11:26. The Apostle Paul tried to persuade King Agrippa to become a Christian. Acts 26:28. Followers of Christ are urged to glorify God in the name. Christian. 1 Pet. 4:16. In each of these passages, the name Christ is honored and not the name of some man or doctrine. Do you call yourself a Christian or do you wear some human name in religion?

By some it is argued that the name we wear really does not make any difference. We are told that there is nothing in a name. This, however, is false. The Bible plainly contradicts this. "Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Acts 4:12. Peter affirms that we must be saved by the name of Christ.

If there is scripture that teaches it is alright to wear some human name, your preacher ought to be able to give it to you. Ask him for it.

A day of Judgment is coming when we all shall account to God for what we have done while we were here on the earth. 2 Cor. 5:10. We cannot afford to be wrong. Since the words of Christ will judge us, we must be sure that we are doing the things He authorized. Jno. 12:48.

The message of Holy Week is not a sad one. Rather, it is the most joyous news we will ever hear! The glory of the resurrection could not have happened without the stark tragedy of Good Friday . . . and because Christ overcame death, we are assured of eternal life. It is certain that we will live again and forever, in a new way that God has planned for us.

Jesus strove constantly to make this blessed truth plain. Time and time again we are told of God's great love, and of His constant concern for the world and people He created.

The highest point of Christ's ministry was the cross. Because of its tremendous power we, as Christians, have been given a ceaseless source of comfort. Come to the church of your choice.

Tube Bender's Talents

Glow Words Glitter

By BYRON EELLS

Roy Cooper Huffs And Puffs.

THE "GREAT White Way" would be a pretty dull place if it weren't for "tube benders," modern day counterparts of the old glass blowers.

Picture the dullness of area business sections—"Glitter Gulch" in Las Vegas or Times Square in New York City—without the variegated colors radiating from neon and plastic signs.

They range from small displays hanging in store windows to "spectaculars" so large they must be erected in sections. One of the newest for a hotel on Las Vegas, "Strip" is so large that it has a built-in elevator so maintenance men can reach various heights. Roy Cooper, owner of the Central Neon Sign Co. of Calcutta, recalls.

Cooper's 15-year-old firm, the only "tube bending" sign company in the tri-state area, has designed and erected many of the neon and plastic signs that light up the business areas within a 50-mile radius of East Liverpool.

His concern has constructed and erected signs for firms in Massillon, Solon, Cadiz, Steubenville, Weirton and Sewickley in addition to the East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester and Newell areas.

IN EAST LIVERPOOL, among the larger installations are those for People's Drugs, Priceless Drugs, Crooks, Heritage House Motel and a new marquee sign at the Travelers Hotel.

Cooper, who became interested in electric signs while working part-time in a relative's neon sign shop—one of the first in Pittsburgh—finds his varied experience helpful since he combines the duties of salesman, draftsman, pattern maker, glass blower and layout man.

The company not only designs and makes the signs, but maintains a sheet-metal shop to fabricate the bases used on larger installations.

Once the customer has decided on the type and size of sign he wants, Cooper makes a color sketch for final approval. Photography is employed to show the environment where the sign will be erected and to have the sign conform with the building architecture.

Type faces often are projected in an opaque projector and then traced full size on pattern paper to insure the uniformity of the letters. The letters then are transferred by carbon paper to asbestos so that the hot glass can be laid on the asbestos and shaped correctly.

Colorful neon and plastic signs brighten East Liverpool's downtown district.

Glass tubes come in four-foot lengths which are heated to a temperature at which they can be bent into the desired shape. How hot must the glass be? Cooper isn't sure. He depends on the "look and feel" to tell him when it is pliable enough to shape.

AFTER THE TUBE is bent in the general shape of the pattern, minor corrections are made by blowing into the still pliable glass while it is lying on the asbestos.

Clear glass is used for the red neon signs, but the other colors result from powder contained in the sealed tubes combined with neon or argon and mercury. Virtually any color can be reproduced by the proper combinations.

In making the layout, the letters or elements of the sign are grouped so they may be handled easily by the installer.

The unit is placed on a pump and a partial vacuum is created and the section is "bombarded" with electric current to remove impurities. Then the section is pumped down to a vacuum of five microns before the gas is fed into the tubing. Since not all portions of the tubes are to transmit light, some sections are blocked out with black paint.

Various effects—including "chasing," color changing and animation—can be achieved. If the colors in a sign are to be changed alternately, then two sets of tubing are required.

Flashers are used for "chasing," a term to designate a method where various portions of a sign light up at set intervals. Animation also can be obtained by using flashers, such as a revolving wheel on a skate.

NEON THEORETICALLY burns forever, so neon signs generally will last as long as the customer sees that they are properly maintained.

Plastic signs in which letters are fused onto a plastic backing became very popular at one time, but Cooper now finds his business divided about equally between plastic and neon signs.

Many customers originally believed plastic signs were less expensive. But Cooper points out the neon components have a longer life and there is less maintenance. Only the exterior of neon signs must be cleaned while both sides of the plastic must be cleaned if the sign is to remain attractive.

And so the effort to attract attention and identify business places goes on, with many areas earning the name of "Neon City."

A CHANGE HAS been made in the method of conducting the fish and game hearings held each year by the Ohio Division of Wildlife.

In the past, a separate hearing was held in each county in the state, but this year four-county districts have been formed and one meeting will be held for each district.

This is being done to attempt to get a better cross section of farmers and sportsmen representing their areas at these hearings.

Columbiana County is included in the district with Harrison, Jefferson and Carrollton Counties, and a hearing will be held next Monday at 7:30 p. m. at Amsterdam. The hearing, open to the public, will be held in the elementary school there.

Game protectors and division officers will be present to answer questions and present proposals.

Sportsmen and landowners are urged to attend to present their point of view and make recommendations which are considered when the annual game laws and bag limits are set.

TWO IMPORTANT changes will be presented by the game officials. The first concerns deer season and the other the method of trapping beaver in counties where allowed.

Under a proposal being considered by the state, all of northeastern Ohio—which would include all of Columbiana County and not just a portion of it—would be open for deer season.

The past season only the section of Columbiana County north of Route 39 was open. The state also is considering extending the deer season for bucks only to five days instead of three.

I don't believe any changes are contemplated in the bow and arrow season.

Concerning the beaver trapping, the state wants to regulate the method of setting traps, making it illegal to place a trap within 25 feet of any dam or beaver house.

Ralph Drake, Columbiana County game protector says there were no problems in this area the past season, but protectors in other counties found traps set on the dams and sometimes right in the side of the house.

The indiscriminate trappers rip out a section of the dam or house and then place the trap in the hole knowing the beaver would make repairs and in all probability get caught.

I know these two proposals will be aired during the meeting at Amsterdam. Others may be presented so if you have anything you want to say, this is your opportunity.

IN ANSWER TO SEVERAL inquiries, the completion date on the dam at the Highlandtown Lake off Route 39 is July 1.

As soon as the dam is completed, the control gates probably will be closed and the impoundment of the water started.

It will take about two years for the water to reach the desired level, unless there is an abnormally wet season. Stocking of the lake may begin this fall.

At present, plans call for bass and bluegills to be put in the lake, with the possibility of channel cats. Whether or not walleyes or northern pike will be tried is questionable.

In case you didn't know, the former Jenkins Lake at Highlandtown has been purchased by the state and now is open to the public.

Test net operations have been started at Pymatuning, Mosquito, Berlin and Milton Lakes. Interested persons with boats are invited to observe the netting operations first hand.

THE WALLEYES ARE starting to move into the shallows for nesting. They have not started hitting good yet on any of the lakes mentioned or at Guilford Lake near Lisbon.

The walleyes taken in the test netting will be stripped and the eggs collected for the fish hatchery at Portage Lakes.

About 60 per cent of the eggs collected hatch under artificial conditions at the hatchery, compared with about 5 per cent in the wild.

Game officials feel the eggs taken at the bigger lakes, where there is a good walleye population, will not hamper the future population in them. Drake will be assisting in the program the coming week.

Northeastern Ohio has reached the point where it can boast of some of the best walleye fishing in the nation.

No test netting is planned in Guilford this spring. Even if there is, none of the walleyes will be stripped of their eggs. Because they are just getting a good start in Guilford, fish management personnel don't want to bother them.

THE OHIO DEPARTMENT of Natural Resources is being swamped with applications for permanent fish licenses from residents 70 or older. They are coming in at a rate in excess of 3,000 per week. The application forms are available at any regular fishing license agency.

Even though safe ice did not develop on Lake Erie until mid-January, an estimated 658,000 yellow perch—or about 72 tons—were taken in a six-week period. Nearly 18,000 anglers fished the area from Toledo to Marblehead, South Bass Island and Sandusky Bay.

BACKWARD RIDER? Bobby Krul, Waterford Park race track jockey who became 17 Friday, is advocating a new riding style which he claims cuts down wind resistance. Krul of Grand Rapids, Mich., and others born April 1 have special license to play practical jokes on their birthday anniversary.

The Lighter Side

THERE'S A certain compelling fascination about the still-current proposal to freeze incurably ill like so many commercially-packed brussels sprouts, hold them in suspended animation for as much as a generation, and then defrost them and restore them to useful life when medicine or surgery has found the answer to a disease or a physical malfunction that now is irretrievably fatal.

It might even work. No one can say until it has been given a go.

But fascinating as the scientific aspects may be, such a process would pose legal questions that would shatter the brain of a Blackstone. Many uncommon questions would be posed that are far beyond the reach of the common law.

When common law was devised, a man lived and then he died. Period. All the laws of estates, hale him into the Internal Revenue Office or the nearest Federal Court.

Some details could be taken care of before the plunge, such as signing over the title to the family car to the wife, if there is one. And the voyager's wardrobe could be salted away in mothballs, hoping against hope that men's fashions would have gone full cycle to double-breasted suits and back to single-breasted outfits by the time he emerged from his icy cocoon. Maybe wide neckties and french cuffs would come back into vogue.

Assuming the wife passed away during the husband's long hiatus, and he was the only heir she could name in her will, what would be the status of the estate in the years he remained in the deep freeze?

State Legislatures certainly would work overtime for years writing new fool-proof laws to cover all the strange questions.

AND THE COURTS would be jammed with both criminal and civil actions arising out of the unheard-of circumstances.

Would payment of life insurance premiums continue while the principal hovered at 320 below? And if he failed to survive the ordeal, would the insurance companies class his death as suicide, accidental or natural?

If the experimentee ever emerged successfully from his frosty sleep, he might find a totally unfamiliar world—or no world at all, for that matter—if a nuclear catastrophe intervened.

Skills that earned him a good living when he stepped into limbo might be archaic in the brave new world in which he awoke.

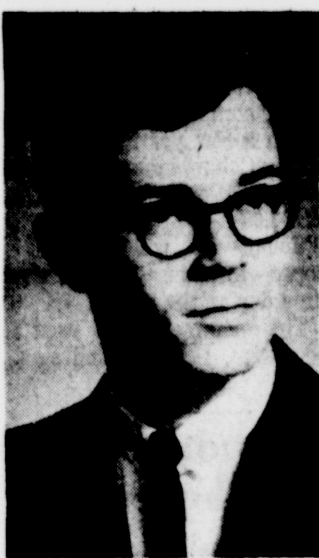

Two things are certain. He would be handed a reminder that his driver's license had expired.

And when he snapped on television, he would see reruns of some of the shows that were big hits in 1966!

Lion Unclogged

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP)—How do you pick a lion's teeth?

City Zoo Superintendent Claude Owens faced up to the problem when Kimberly, a zoo lion, got a bone wedged between his teeth.

A dozen spectators watched as Owens calmly reached between bars of Kimberly's cage and began tugging at the bone.

Kimberly cooperated by pulling and twisting his head. After a few minutes, the bone popped out.

Chouse Victims Ponder Strange Tale About Auto

What was that "thing" which climbed out of the greenish-glowing car on Pennsylvania Ave. nine years ago? Judging from the number of personal queries and telephone calls which The Review staff received Saturday and Monday, quite a number of readers wondered what happened to the rest of the Feature Page story, "A Day To Remember, A Night To Forget."

The tale reached to near the bottom of the page, then advised the reader to turn to Chouse, Page 24.

Naturally, there was no page 24. In fact, there was no strangely glowing car or driver on Pennsylvania Ave. nine years ago—at least we don't know of any.

The truth is, the story was merely an April Fool touch, just as all the other articles on the two pages were.

Those who went to their dictionaries learned chouse means to trick.

Sorry about that. . .

Some Loot Left

LINCOLN, Ill. — Haste makes waste, a jewelry store thief found here. In the cover of darkness, he smashed a display window, reaching in to grab and make off with $800 worth of watches and rings. But several valuable rings were dropped on the sidewalk and found by night police who discovered the break-in.

You And The Law

Joe and Jim had lived side by side as neighbors for years. The neighborhood was essentially residential, except for the gasoline station which Joe operated on the front of his property.

Jim decided that he also would like to go into his own business. With the money he had saved during the last several years, he thought he could make an addition to the front of his home for a restaurant and pave the front lawn of his property for a parking lot.

THE NEXT Monday Jim stopped in the City Building Department and talked to the building inspector. After Jim had filled out the formal application for a building permit, the inspector examined it.

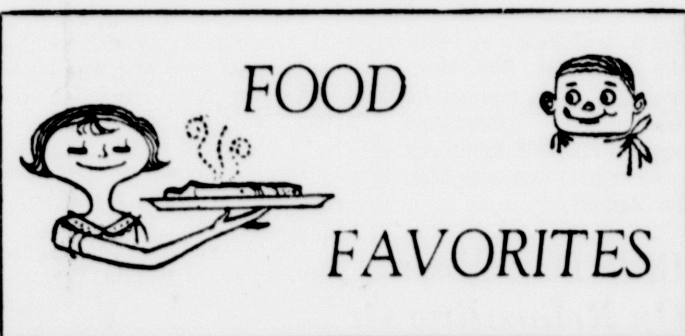

The inspector had bad news. "Jim, I won't be able to give you a building permit. Your property is zoned for residential use and your application indicates that the addition that you are building will be used for a commercial restaurant."

Jim pointed out to the inspector that his neighbor, Joe, had operated a gasoline station for over 25 years and that no one had ever stopped Joe from the operation of his business.

The inspector explained that 10 years ago the city, in conformity with the general plan to preserve the character of Jim's residential area, zoned the area for residential use only. He further explained that Joe's business had been in existence long before the zoning laws were adopted and is considered under the law as a non-conforming use, which is a use of property that has been established prior to zoning legislation that prohibits such a use.

Young Married Men
Face W. Va. Draft Call
CHARLESTON, W. Va. — Young men married before last Aug. 26 probably will be called up to help fill the state's May draft quota of 408, Brig. Gen. Gene Hal Williams said Friday.

Williams, director of the state's Selective Service system, added that local draft boards would not find it necessary to induct married fathers "who are maintaining bona fide family relationships."

The May quota is 168 higher than the April draft call of 240 men from West Virginia.

Toy sales at the retail level last year amounted to $2.44 billion, compared with $2.27 billion the preceding year.

Sholokhov Backs Red Party Against Antiparty Writers

NEW YORK (AP) — The Soviet Union's most famous living writer, Nobel Prize winner Mikhail Sholokhov, has thrown his prestige into the Communist party's battle against nonconforming, antiparty writers.

His speech to the 23rd congress of the party in Moscow Friday invoked mother, home, patriotism and the sacredness of the Russian language to assuage such rebellious writers as Andrei D. Sinyavsky and Yuli M. Daniel. They were sentenced to labor camps in February for smuggling anti-Communist writings out of the country.

The complete text of Sholokhov's speech was made available in New York by Tass.

Sholokhov drew on the rich vocabulary of Russian invective to denounce the two writers, whom he did not mention by name, as everything from scribblers and rascals to turncoats and traitors.

He said persons in the Soviet Union and those abroad who defended the imprisoned writers were indulging in "wishy-washy do-goodism" and added, "I am ashamed of them."

The violence of Sholokhov's denunciation, and the fact that it took place at a party, not a writers' congress, indicated that the anti-Communist, liberal, humanist trend among writers and other intellectuals was so strong that the country's top leaders felt a major attack must be made by a figure with prestige in those circles.

Sholokhov, although a famous writer, is also a member of the party's Central Committee and has turned his pen to the service of whoever was ruling the Soviet Union — whether Stalin, Khrushchev or Leonid I. Brezhnev.

"Our Soviet country is our mother," Sholokhov said, "we are all members of one huge family. How can we react to works by traitors who encroach on things that are dearest to us? Nothing can be more sacrilegious and loathsome than to slander one's mother, foully insult her, raise one's hand against her."

Boy's Father In New Plea To Kidnaper

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Aaron Goldman has been sleeping only a couple of hours a day since his 18-year-old son was kidnapped from his home before dawn last Monday.

His eyes red-rimmed, the wealthy contractor went before television cameras Friday and made his second public appeal to the husky middle-aged man who took his only child.

Please, please make contact immediately.

"Danny's mother and I have been in a state of shock since our son was forcibly taken from our home last Monday morning."

"We have raised the required $25,000 expecting the kidnaper's call between 6 and 7 Monday evening."

Police today are waiting for a city motorist's version of an East End mishap Friday night before completing their investigation.

The mishap at 10:50 p.m. involved a westbound auto of Paul G. Melnick, 19, of 59-E, Midland Heights, and a car operated by Allen Lockhart of 1050 Vine St.

Lockhart left his name and address with Melnick and then continued toward work, police said.

The Midland youth said he was headed west and pulled against the curb and to avoid being struck by the car operated by Lockhart, who was passing a third auto at the crest of a hill.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

New Jobholder Seeks Help

It is human nature to ignore creeping overweight until a changed situation jolts us into action. This is the case with the homemaker in today's story.

"In the last 18 years I have slowly taken on 25 excess pounds. Since I was raising a family and taking part in community affairs, I pretty much accepted the added weight—not happily, but it seemed to take more effort to reduce and shape up than I could give to the project.

"I have taken an office job and find to my chagrin that I look downright dumpy, and years older than the other women my age. I feel as though I've been left behind! In the past few months I have dieted, after a fashion, but it never lasts.

"I need help. What do you suggest for a 40-year-old, tired and discouraged overweight homemaker who has gone to seed and now has to change?"

THE FIRST step is to put yourself in the hands of a competent doctor. It is particularly important at this time in your life that you have a physical check-up. You need to lose excess fat, but you want to look and feel like your best self. Your doctor can help you, perhaps with hormone therapy. Do not ask for an appetite depressant.

The mistake you have made, and it is a common one, is to try to "diet" rigidly instead of using the science of nutrition to build slimmness and vitality. Lopsided dieting can sap your energy just at the time more energy is needed to carry on.

It is quite possible that you are starving your body of the protective nutrients while supporting the excess pounds on foods which furnish chiefly "empty calories."

If you plan your meals around the protective foods you can be well nourished on 1200 calories a day, and you will lose weight. The grocery list and the family menus should be planned around lean meat, fish and chicken, cottage cheese, skim milk or buttermilk, eggs, green and yellow vegetables, fruit and fruit juices. Be sure to eat three adequate meals a day, starting with breakfast. Have a protein at each meal. Treat yourself to a late afternoon energy boost. Make this a protective food.

AGE FORTY is beautifully young! Look upon your return to business as a chance for a new beginning. The brain is a goal seeker. What are your goals? Picture how you want to look and feel. Personal changes require desire and gumption. Interest is the catalyst. On the plus side, even small changes can bring amazing returns, for results are cumulative.

To recharge your energy, seek a recreation that affords physical exercise. Isometric exercises are strength-giving, too.

New York Police Report Smashing Of Gaming Ring

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — Police say they have smashed a $1 million-a-year gambling ring with the arrests of six persons, including four attractive housewives accused of taking 25 to 100 calls a week from bettors since Dec. 1.

The women, all of whom are mothers of two or more children, each made $100 a week to operate the answering service from their homes between household chores, police said Friday. They were accused of taking coded telephone numbers from bettors and relaying them to bookmakers.

"There were big bettors, no $2 stuff," said a spokesman for the district attorney's office. "The bets ran anywhere from $10 to $300 each."

A parttime bartender, George Rainaldi, 42, of Mamaroneck, was accused of operating the ring and recruiting the women. He was charged with three counts of bookmaking.

Another man, David Grande, 25, of New Rochelle, a tree surgeon, was charged with book-making conspiracy.

The women, all charged with conspiracy, are Carmella Perri, Jane Iannarelli, and Zosh Colleluori, all 29 from Mamaroneck and Louise Shampanois, 32, of White Plains.

Fraternity House Hit By Fire At Cincy U.

CINCINNATI (AP)—A fire caused heavy damage late Friday night at the Sigma Chi fraternity chapter house at the University of Cincinnati.

Only three persons were in the house, and there were no injuries, firemen said. The third floor of the old tudor-style mansion was destroyed. The third floor was sleeping quarters for 18 students.

A damage estimate was not available. Cause of the fire was not known.

Rio Grande Continues As NCA Candidate

RIO GRANDE, Ohio (AP)—Rio Grande College will continue as a candidate for membership with the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools despite a denial for accreditation this week.

Dr. Alphas R. Christensen, Rio Grande's president, said Friday his school probably will not try again for accreditation, however, before the spring of 1968. The association listed seven areas of weakness at the college.

Marines Having Little Luck In Luring Retired Personnel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Marines are having little success in initial efforts to attract retired personnel back to service. Nevertheless, the Army is planning a similar drive.

The Marine Corps quietly launched a program in late February to return to active duty retired men with certain skills. This was aimed at putting trained men in key slots as well as helping meet the corps' manpower goal of 278,000 in 1967 — 43,000 above current strength.

"To date there have been 71 complete and correct applications received," a Defense Department spokesman said today when asked about the results.

The Marines are looking for retired sergeants in the top four grades with not more than 28 years total service who are willing to go active again for at least two years.

There are about 60 military specialties where such men — who would require no training — are needed, the spokesman said.

These include skills in intelligence, logistics, communications and aviation, and, in fewer numbers, infantry, artillery, tanks, supply, information services and photography.

The Army it was learned, also is about to undertake a program to reach "certain retired noncommissioned officers in certain critical skills."

Army officials are in the process of deciding which specialists will be sought, and at last word were working with a list of

Cuban Editor's Home Damaged In Bomb Blast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A bomb exploded in the driveway at the home of the Cuban editor of an anti-Castro newspaper Friday night, blowing out the windows of his house and damaging the family car.

Armando Garcia Sifredo, 48, publisher of the Spanish language weekly Patria, said it was the second such bombing in six months. No one was hurt in either explosion.

Garcia blamed the bombings on "Fidelistas or Communists." Friday night's explosion was heard by Garcia four blocks away where he said he was visiting a friend.

His wife, Alacia, 38, two sons, Armando Jr., 12, and Aurelio, 10, and the boys' grandparents were uninjured but shaken. They had been asleep in the eight-room house.

Garcia's married son Willie, 20, said his father was accosted outside his house about five months ago. He said the attacker was scared off when his father took a swing at him.

Garcia said his paper is distributed free in Miami, Newark, N.J., New York City and South America.

Board Faces Busy Evening

A lengthy agenda, including a decision on a boycott of a printing company requested by a pressmen's union, continuing contracts for teachers, rental of school facilities, participation in federally-financed school projects, will face the Board of Education at its meeting Monday night at 8.

The board indicated at its March 7 meeting that it would reach a decision on a double-barreled resolution requested by the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union asking the board not to use any systems whose books are produced by Kingsport Press, Inc., of Kingsport, Tenn., and to notify textbook publishers of its decision.

Gerald Cartwright, international union representative, said four international unions and the AFL-CIO are backing the boycott of the company where 1-200 workers have been on strike for three years.

The resolution to participate in federal aid to education would enable the school officials to file for specific projects under Titles I and II.

The board also will approve the dates of baccalaureate and commencement and give formal approval to the commencement speaker.

Robert F. Beatty, architect, also is scheduled to give the board a progress report on the building program.

19th Junior Tourney Champ To Be Crowned Tonight

First Semi-Final Battle Set For 7

A pair of Ohio teams and two outfits from the same neck of the woods in Pennsylvania will battle it out in the semi-finals of the 19th annual Blue and White Nonpareil Club Junior Basketball Tournament tonight at Memorial Auditorium.

The Corner Tavern of Sharon, Pa., and Silver Fox of Youngstown won their way into the semi-finals Friday night before a small crowd.

THE 19TH champion will be crowned tonight, with the first semi-final game at 7 putting Silver Fox against Eason's Insurance of East Liverpool and the Corner Tavern meeting Farrell in the second at 8 p.m.

Eason's is made up of East Liverpool, Wellsville and Youngstown area players featuring Denny Steinbeck of Champion and Mark LaPort of Springfield Local, while Silver Fox is a mixture of talent from Youngstown city schools.

The most impressive outfit to appear Friday was the Corner Tavern, made up of players from the Farrell and Mercer varsity squads. Mercer was the Pennsylvania Class B champ this season and Farrell was the Section 3 champion.

The Farrell - Mercer combine will battle another team from Farrell made up of juniors and sophomores from Farrell High, which is considered next year's varsity team.

A half - hour intermission will follow the second semi-final game tonight.

ANOTHER forfeit, second of the tournament, occurred Friday night when Gip's All-Stars of Pittsburgh failed to appear and forfeited to Bridgeport in the second game.

The Corner Tavern - Bridgeport battle turned out to be the top game on Friday's card.

The small Corner Tavern five jumped out to an early advantage, but had to stave off a determined comeback by Bridgeport in the second half to gain an 85-75 victory.

The Sharon entry was sparked by the clever work of 5-9 Leander Flint, who poured in 30 points and turned in some Gullick turned in a 29-point performance for Silver Fox, while Gromada added 20. Joe Shiver scored 17 to pace Salem.

Salem won last night's opening game by eliminating next year's Ellwood City varsity, 66-60, as Shiver connected for 24 points and Doug Plastow added 16. Ritchie paced Ellwood City with 21.

Weiskopf, Sanders Share Lead In Greensboro Open

By REESE HART
GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Young Tom Weiskopf, who hated golf until eight years ago, and short-swinging Doug Sanders were tied for the lead as the $100,000 greater Greensboro Open moved into the third round today.

Weiskopf, 23, a fledgling pro seeking his first major tournament victory, played flawless golf from tee to green Friday as he shot a four under par 67 for a 135 total.

Sanders, who led the first round with 65, finished nearly four hours after Weiskopf and had to birdie the 17th hole to gain a tie. His 70 included three birdies and two bogies.

In third place at 136 was lanky Al Geiberger, who one-upped seven greens on his way to a 70 Friday.

Tied for fourth at 137 were Dave Ragan, R. H. Sikes and Steve Reid. Ragan and Reid had 68s and Sikes 69.

U.S. Stars Top Pennsylvania's Cagers, 114-106

PITTSBURGH (AP) — If Cal Murphy stands on his tiptoes, he can touch the top of Larry Rosenzweig's head. But it was the little fellows like Murphy who paced the action in the U.S. All-Stars' 114-106 victory over their schoolboy counterparts from Pennsylvania Friday night.

Murphy, who stands 5-11 compared to teammate Rosenzweig's seven feet, pumped in 37 points for his national all-stars. While the Norwalk, Conn., native was shredding the nets, his backcourt companion, 6-foot Jerry Francis of Columbus, Ohio, pumped in 21 points.

And who led the Pennsylvania All-Stars? Sam Jacino of Farrell—he stands 5-9 — with 29 points.

The Pennsylvania team was only three points behind with 2½ minutes to go in the game when Murphy put the Nationals

Celtics Eye 76ers After Comeback Against Royals

By C. C. MCGILLICUDDY
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Boston turned its attention toward Philadelphia today without taking time to enjoy its comeback victory over the Cincinnati Royals in the National Basketball Association's Eastern division semifinal playoff.

Victorious Coach Red Auerbach ordered a practice session, declining to give his players a day off despite the tough series with the Royals that closed Friday night with Boston scoring a 112-103 victory in the fifth and final game.

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Lakers trounced the St. Louis Hawks 129-106 and took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven Western Division final.

The Celtics swing right back into action Sunday when they open the best-of-seven division final playoff against Philadelphia and Wilt Chamberlain on the 76ers' court.

"Sam was the key," said Auerbach as he discussed the scoring exploits of Sam Jones that brought the Celtics from an eight-point deficit in the first quarter to a second period lead they never lost.

"Sam's shooting is what did it. Sam and John Havlicek," Jones wound up with 34 points, getting 24 in the first half to lead Boston's rally. Havlicek had 23 points, taking over the shooting chores when Jones was lifted in the second period for a rest.

Auerbach also felt Cincinnati's failures helped Boston's cause considerably.

Smith, the hero of the first Cincinnati victory in the series, was taken out of the final game early. Coach Jack McMahon said he lifted Smith for Tom Hawkins because he wanted to get more height.

McMahon believes the tough semifinal series will help Boston in its attempt to capture its eighth consecutive NBA championship.

Jerry West and Elgin Baylor were the big guns for the home team Lakers, who outscored the Hawks 35-15 in the final period. West scored 28 points and Baylor 22. Zelmo Beaty and Richie Guerin scored 22 each for St. Louis.

The two teams play again Sunday in Los Angeles.

Ex-Newell Athlete's Team Runner-Up In Virginia Play

Len Messer, one-time Newell High athlete and later coach at Jefferson Union, recently led his Patrick Henry High School quintet of Roanoke, Va., into the state Group 1-A tourney finals, but unfortunately came away second best.

His Patriots, losers of only one game during the regular season, bowed, 54-39, to Washington - Lee of Arlington in the Virginia championship game.

Messer's team had a "cold" night in the finals, shooting only 19 per cent from the field. It was the third game in as many nights for the Patriots.

Baseball League Selects Officers

Jack Stewart was elected president of the Highlandtown No. 16 Junior Baseball League during a meeting Wednesday at the fire hall.

Jim Crews will serve as vice president.

Named as head managers of the three teams — the Rebels, Apaches and Colts — were Chuck Allison, Bob Hall and Don Boyd, respectively. The teams are made up of boys from age 8½ to 12.

The group is selling candy bars to raise funds for purchasing equipment.

Paul Talbott presided. The next meeting will be May 4.

Second No-Hitter Of Training Season

A's Lindblad, Wyatt Team To No-Hit Astros, 4 To 0

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Alvin Dark, Charley Finley, a mule and a bunch of guys named Joe.

That's what the Kansas City Athletics had going for them until Paul Lindblad, one of the anonymous A's, stepped out of character and into the baseball spotlight Friday night.

Lindblad, a 24-year-old left-hander, teamed with relief specialist John Wyatt for the second no-hitter of the exhibition season as Kansas City blanked the Houston Astros 4-0.

The no-hitter came four days after Bob Veale and Luke Walker of Pittsburgh held the Los Angeles Dodgers hitless.

Lindblad worked the first six innings, retiring 11 straight batters before issuing a walk to Jim Wynn and then setting down the last seven he faced. Wyatt walked two and was helped by a diving catch by Bert Campaneris in his three-inning stint.

Last year Lindblad had a 12-1 record with Vancouver before joining the A's late in the season. He made four relief appearances for Kansas City and wound up with an earned run average of 11.57. Wyatt pitched in 65 games, all in relief, and was 2-6 with a 3.24 ERA.

Robin Roberts, added to the Astros' roster earlier in the day, took the loss although yielding only two hits in six innings. One of the hits off the 39-year-old right-hander, biggest winner among active pitchers, was a two-run homer by Bill Bryan in the second.

Larry Stahl closed out the scoring with another two-run homer in the eighth.

The New York Mets, last-place counterpart of the A's in the National League, whipped the Chicago White Sox 4-1 behind the strong pitching of rookie southpaws Rob Gardner and Dick Rusteck.

The San Francisco Giants rested half their team for a weekend exhibition series with the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Cleveland Indians were out the other half 13-3, scoring 10 runs in the fifth inning off Ron Herbel and Lindy McDaniel.

Marcelino Lopez hurled seven shutout innings, allowing only three hits, as California trimmed the Chicago Cubs 5-0.

Norm Siebern and Willie Smith homered for the Angels.

A three-run homer by Zoilo Versalles and Harmon Killebrew's solo blast powered the Minnesota Twins to a 10-6 victory over Cincinnati. Don Pavletich homered twice and Tommy Helms hit his first of the spring for the losers.

Carl Yastrzemski drove in four runs with a homer and bases-loaded double as the Boston Red Sox routed 24-game winner Tony Cloninger and whipped the Atlanta Braves 7-1.

St. Louis edged Detroit 7-6, Tim McCarver leading the way with three hits including a homer. The Tigers rallied for four runs in the ninth, Norm Cash and Al Kaline homering.

The Pittsburgh Pirates struck for four runs in the 11th inning and topped the New York Yankees 7-3. Bob Bailey's three-run homer pulled the Pirates even in the fourth.

John Callison pinch hit a run-scoring triple in the eighth inning and tallied the go-ahead run on Tony Gonzalez' third hit as the Philadelphia Phillies came from behind to beat Baltimore 7-5.

Youngstown South Wins, 75-41

Woods Cracks Shot Mark But EL's Trackmen Lose

Bob Woods of East Liverpool shattered a shot put record that had stood for 20 years with a heave of 48 feet 1¼ inches, but the Potters fell, 75-41, to a strong Youngstown South track team Friday at Patterson Field.

Woods' mark in the opening meet of the season, bested the record heave held by Dick O'Hanlon, who tossed the shot 47 feet, 3¼ inches in 1946.

Youngstown gained victories in 10 of 14 events held Friday for the lopsided margin. The broad jump event was not held.

The Potters also shined in the pole vault by capturing all three places as Diddle vaulted 9 feet 6 inches and was backed by teammates Fredicks and Jackson.

Other first place spots were won by Greg Manning in the 2-mile run with a time of 10:33 and Bill Loy in the mile run with a clocking of 4:54.1 as the distance runners came through for the Potters.

King paced the South High thinclads with first place finished in the 100-yard dash and 440-yard run. He stepped off the 100-yard event in 10.5 and returned with a 54.4 mark in the 440.

The visitors gained victories in both relay events with Passarella, Cramb, Thrent and Barns winning the half-mile event with a time of 1:36.5 and Trent, Fields, Mocken and King covering the mile - relay in 3:43.5.

Besides shutting the Potters out in the relays, Youngstown scored heavy victories in five other events including the 100-yard, 440-yard, 180-yard low hurdles, 880-yard run, and 220-yard competition for 8-1 margins.

Marv Wilson captured the low hurdle event with a mark of 22.7; Cramb won the 220 with a time of 24.3 and Kidd paced off the half - mile run with a 2:11.6 finish for South.

Other South wins were marked by Mack Wilson in the 120-yard high hurdles, 16.5; James in the discus, 136 feet 4 inches and in the high jump, Bently with a leap of 6 feet.

Complete results of the meet are:

2-mile Run — Manning (L), Borton, Kelly (L) and Pasco (S) Time: 10:53.

120-yd. H.H. — Mack Wilson (S) Johnson (L), and Banks (S) Time: 16.5.

100-yd. Dash — King (S), Cramb (S), Hopper (L) Time: 10.5.

Mile Run — Loy (L), Singleton (S) and Woods (L) Time: 4:54.1.

Federal Jury Recesses Its Boxing Probe

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating alleged criminal inroads in boxing recessed Friday but was expected to resume its activity in about a week.

Edward V. Hanrahan, U.S. attorney conducting the probe, said Friday the grand jury had resorted to a "routine session." Most observers felt this was done to take the public spotlight off the investigation.

The grand jury heard testimony from two reputed Chicago gangsters and six New York fight figures Wednesday, and on Thursday Bernard Glickman, Chicago businessman and former fight manager, was brought to the hearing.

Glickman, who has been in FBI custody since early February after an alleged beating triggered the investigation with his report to federal agents.

Glickman reportedly testified of gangster attempts to muscle in on the Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell heavyweight championship bout which never was held.

Hanrahan, who has been in odds with members of the press, radio and television over coverage of the investigations, walked out on his personally scheduled news conference late Friday.

Hanrahan said the investigation had been damaged by publicity and added that names of grand jury witnesses should not be disclosed so that "witnesses know they can appear secure in the knowledge that neither their presence nor their testimony can ever properly be disclosed without court order."

During the news conference Hanrahan was asked about a dozen questions by reporters. In each instance, he refused to answer and finally walked to the door of the grand jury room and said, "that is all, gentlemen."

Ted Abernathy, the under-hand right-handed relief ace of the Chicago Cubs, set a major league record in 1965 by appearing in 84 games, all in relief.

Suggests He Run For Vice President

Clay Gags It Up On TV

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, subdued and talking softly, gagged it up on a national television program late Friday night and suggested off the cuff that he run for vice president of the United States.

"I was in the White House just the other day," Clay said with obvious tongue in cheek, "and I was talking with Mr. President Johnson."

"And I said to Mr. President Johnson that when the next election comes along, I ought to run for vice president and he'd be elected for four years for sure."

"Then he asked me how come."

"So I told him there were three reasons."

"First of all, he'd get all the Negro votes. Second he'd get all the (Black) Muslims votes and the Unions."

(Clay, who was introduced on the Johnny Carson show by his Black Muslim name of Muhammad Ali, then apparently lost count in his enjoyment of the moment and went immediately to point No. 4.)

"Four, it would be the greatest life insurance in the world. I told him he could go anywhere he wanted, could take Mrs. President Johnson to the supermarket or anything."

"Then he wanted to know why, and I told him, how much safer can he get. Who in the devil is gonna do you any harm when a Black Muslim is gonna be the next president?"

"He said he'd think about it." Clay then settled back in his chair in obvious satisfaction and added:

"I'll probably go see him later."

Clay touched on a number of subjects, including his fight with George Chuvalo in Toronto last Tuesday night, but both he and the show's host avoided any direct mention of either his draft status or impending troubles over non-payment of alimony.

On Ernie Terrell, recognized as the champion by the World Boxing Association and Clay's originally scheduled opponent, Clay had this to say:

"He's talking a lot about a fight. But I can tell you this, when we fight, he's going to be a crossword puzzle fighter."

"Crossword puzzle fighter?" the host asked as a straight man.

"Yeah," answered Clay. "He'll come in vertical and go out horizontal."

On his favorite subject — himself — Clay talked about his early years.

"Oh, I been fighting so long. I started when I was very young."

"In fact, I used my fists so much when I was a kid, I was, oh, maybe five years old before I learned I had fingers."

Dayton Truck Driver

Has Brush With Death

BELLE VERNON, Pa. (AP) — How's this for luck?

Arthur Terry of Dayton, Ohio, was driving his tractor-trailer along Route 70 near this Fayette County town Friday.

The rig hit a bridge abutment. The cab separated from the trailer, smashed 10 guard rails, dropped down a 50-foot embankment and burst into flames.

Terry, 45, walked away unhurt. The trailer overturned and scattered its cargo of 40,000 pounds of glass over the highway.

Junior Editors Quiz on STONEHENGE

STONEHENGE DID DRUIDS WORSHIP HERE?

STONEHENGE TODAY

QUESTION: What was Stonehenge used for?

ANSWER: About 8 miles north of Salisbury in England, there are some huge, ancient-looking stones that obviously once formed part of some strange, primitive temple. Inner circles, horseshoe-shaped, enclose a big stone which was evidently an altar. Pairs of massive pillars stand with capping blocks on top. Through modern dating methods, it has been established that parts of Stonehenge date from the late Neolithic Period, or about 4,000 B. C. Charcoal for a nearby pit has a date of about 2000 B. C.

Exactly how this imposing ruin was used does not seem to be clear. It is arranged so a shaft of sunlight could come through and rest on the altar stone at dawn on the day of the summer solstice, June 21. Some scholars feel that the Druids, who worshipped nature in ancient England, may have used Stone Henge for adoration of the sun, an idea which we illustrate. Other authorities feel that Druids could not have been connected with Stonehenge. It seems clear that Stonehenge was used by some ancient race of people for purposes of worship. Perhaps more discoveries will be made and the secret of Stonehenge uncovered.

FOR YOU TO DO: The ancient Druids had some strange and romantic ideas. Find out more about them.

Kevin Plister of Dover, Del., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

Congress Fails To Project Image

Average Soviet Citizen Has Little To Cheer About

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Soviet Communist party's leadership has had a week of its 23rd congress — the first congress without the noisy presence of Nikita S. Khrushchev — in which to project its image before the Soviet public. It has offered little for the average Soviet citizen to cheer about.

The leaders have denied Stalin again and voiced their aversion to Stalinism. But they have retreated into some aspects of Stalinism, evidently out of apprehension over the future of the entrenched top-level bureaucracy.

Basically, what seems to have happened is that the relaxations of the post-Stalin era had gone too far for the leaders' own comfort. Criticism of the Stalin era implied criticism of the party itself.

Now, in some respects, the leaders seem to be intent upon returning to some aspects of the past. They seem to want to clean up that picture of the Stalin era, the butt of so much outspoken criticism in the past 10 years, and to upgrade the party's history. The object appears to be to halt an erosion of party authority engendered by cynicism among young people and intellectuals.

The leaders have revived the terms Politburo and general secretary, both indelibly stamped with the Stalin era. There appears to be almost a desperation in this, to make clear that the Communist party of the Soviet Union remains the Bolshevik party of Lenin's and Stalin's day.

The first party secretary, Leonid I. Brezhnev, who presumably now will become general secretary and chairman of a Politburo rather than a party Presidium; Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, President Nikolai Podgorny, ideologist Mikhail Suslov and others at the top all are linked with the Stalin era.

When they return to its terms and tools, they evoke memories of a dictator who, as general secretary, ruled his party, Politburo and nation with a hand of steel. The term Politburo has not been used since the 19th congress in 1952, just before Stalin died, when the political bureau of the party was transformed into a Presidium.

Soviet intellectuals now can begin worrying about sterner discipline and more rigid control of what they can say and do. The restoration of the old terms has bridged a 14-year gap, overleaping the whole Khrushchev era and its promise of liberalization, and re-establishing a link to the Stalin period.

Obviously, some in the party leadership are unhappy with matters as they have been recently. By official count, there are 11,673,676 Communist party members and 797,403 candidate members, which means that one in every 18 Soviet men, women and children is a member of the party. That is more than five million above the number in 1956 at the time of the 20th — de-Stalinization — congress.

Membership in the party once was difficult to achieve. It was considered the only reliable stepping stone to a successful career. Khrushchev, as a consummate politician, increased party ranks to buttress his power. Those who sought membership purely for reasons of personal advancement — basically the cynical unbelievers — swelled party ranks and diluted party authority.

Today, party membership is no longer necessary for a successful career. Indeed, many do quite well outside the party ranks. The goal of party membership obviously has been cheapened, as Communists view it.

Brezhnev may have had all this in mind when he told the congress that party membership henceforth would be more difficult to achieve. Young people wanting to get into the party will do so only after careful screening. Gradually the party may be scaled down to a membership which is more manageable.

But the leaders are far from finished with their problems. Demand from below for a more liberalized system and a better share of Soviet wealth probably is more insistent now than ever. Ideological ideas have pushed in from the West.

If it takes a form of Stalinism to mute the implied criticism of party leadership, the machinery now exists in the light of what the congress has produced to date.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Parent Transmits Nervousness To Child

There are some serene mothers of highly nervous children but rarely a serene child of a highly nervous mother. More often than not the child goes together and the causes are not nearly always physical.

More often they are emotional, when most can be done if the mother can handle herself and her relations to the child better. The problem can grow complicated when the child is known as very jittery and "nervous" at school. The squirming, wriggling, fidgety schoolchild can be a great trial to the teacher.

RECENTLY A mother wrote: "I was reading your story in the paper on nervous children. My little boy is a nervous child and is finding it very difficult in school. The teacher is at her wit's end and so am I. The other day the principal called me, so I know it is getting pretty bad. I took him to the doctor and he said he has very bad nerves. I am also afraid my daughter will be the same. She cries every time you speak cross to her.

"Neither child will do as we say unless they see I am really cross. I have always been nervous and high-strung myself and I try hard to control myself from shouting but I just don't seem to be able to stop. I worry so much about bills, and now my husband has bad nerves. I would appreciate any advice you can give me. I have been to doctors and they only help a little with medicine and I just can't afford to be buying medicine for all of us all the time. Thank you very much." My reply in part:

YOU ARE wise to seek counsel of a physician for yourself and son. But, while some pills might give you temporary relief, you probably need help from a psychiatrist. Perhaps your physician would be glad to refer you to one. Go alone to him first and hope that as he helps you manage yourself better you soon might also grow more calm.

Anything you and your husband working together can do to reduce your need of worry over bills and to find more rest and relaxation for yourself should help mightily. I hope you are religious and go to church regularly and often pray. Faith in the Almighty and trust in Him has helped quite many a troubled "nervous" person.

Perhaps you and Dad might think through ways to guide and discipline your children better and have more fun with them. Don't let yourself repeat commands and shriek at them. Put no trust in cross words. Don't wait till you get angry to act decisively.

When you must punish either child, assign him to sit unmolested where you can see him for a definite reasonable period. Try to help this older child feel he is loved and loved as much as the younger one. Dad should often spend a lot of time with them, especially the older.

My bulletins "The Nervous Child" and "The Nervous Jittery Mother" may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Controversy Dogs Lindsay In Mayor Role

NEW YORK (AP) — John V. Lindsay has been mayor for three months, and they've given him a hard time.

From the transit strike that began on his inaugural day to his current battle for a $520-million tax boost, the 44-year-old Republican mayor has been in constant controversy.

Lindsay's November election victory in this Democratic stronghold pushed him into the national spotlight — a handsome, liberal and charming man.

By St. Patrick's Day, when Scott Lindsay walked in the Fifth Avenue parade, he was alternately booed and cheered. Irishman Robert F. Kennedy, a short distance from the mayor, was wildly cheered.

Lindsay has tangled with the City Council, the legislature, the police brass and the press. He has been alternately short-tempered and humorous with opponents. City councilmen once accused him of lecturing them like schoolboys.

He has jostled with the late Transit Union leader Michael Quill, crusty highway builder Robert Moses, and President Keith Funston of the Stock Exchange. He has warily sparred with Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who may view him as a political rival, but whose help Rockefeller will need in this year's state election.

Lindsay insists he's not interested in any job but mayor. His performance in the first 90 days has delighted some, and caused others to picture him as a bungling Boy Scout or an arrogant dictator.

He has proposed consolidation of all transit agencies under a single authority, over which the mayor would exert considerable control. Moses, 75, who would lose his job as chairman of the Bridge and Tunnel Authority, calls it a "power grab."

"I know my program is fair because everyone is equally mad at it. I will not accept defeat," Lindsay said of his tax plan. But the former congressman was arranging compromises in an effort to get it through an election-year legislature and a Democratic City Council.

The Democrats, out of City Hall control for the first time in 20 years, have been handling Lindsay with kid gloves. City Council President Frank O'Connor, a possible candidate for governor, has assumed the role of reasonable critic.

Lindsay announced his tax plan in one of several television "fireside chats," a format which exploits his good looks and charm.

The tax program includes a city income tax and a 50 per cent increase in the stock transfer tax.

Funston threatened to move the exchange out of the city, and announced it was canceling plans for a new $50-million downtown headquarters. "Lots of people have lost money on the stock market," commented Lindsay, "but I may be the first to have lost the whole market."

Suburban legislators lined up to support the income tax on commuters was out. They demanded that he raise the 15-cent transit fare, or they would chop his tax program by the amount of any transit subsidy.

Hospital Treats Four In Area Emergencies

A woman injured in a fall, a man hurt while working and two youths who suffered ankle injuries were treated Friday at City Hospital.

Mrs. Minnie Horner of R.D. 2 suffered a laceration of the forehead in a fall at home.

Richard Staley of 1317 St. Clair Ave. cut his left hand on a piece of ware at the Hall China Co.

Richard Carter, son of Richard Carter of 1180 Erie St., suffered contusions of the right ankle when he jumped from the roof of a building.

Vance Noah, son of William Noah of Newell, injured his ankle in gym class at Oak Glen High School.

'Dollars For Scholars' Progress Emphasized

Patterson Industries has boosted its contribution to the "Dollars for Scholars" fund by 25 per cent over last year, Jackman S. Vodrey, campaign vice president, told the Lions Club in urging its participation Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

Vodrey said Patterson has agreed to contribute $2,500 to this year's drive to provide scholarship funds for students in seven school districts, $500 more than it donated last year.

MANUFACTURERS like the drive covering the East Liverpool, Wellsville, Beaver Local, Oak Glen, Midland, South Side and Western Beaver school districts because they can make one contribution covering all districts from which they draw employees, he declared.

In addition to the company contribution, Steelworkers Local 1322 at Patterson East End plant has contributed $200, he announced.

Pointing out the house canvass in East Liverpool netted $2,000 this year, 2½ times more than ever realized before, Vodrey lauded the campaign workers, but said he believes 75 per cent of the credit must go to residents "who understand what we are doing."

The attorney explained the scholarships do not have to be used at a college or university, but can be applied for vocational or other type of training that will help students improve themselves. "It shows that we care what happens to them."

NEITHER students nor their parents are required to sign to repay the loans, but are given to understand they have a moral obligation to repay the grant 10 years after they have finished their training.

The fledgling organization is only four years old so it hasn't encountered the repayment problem as yet. However, in other areas where "Dollars for Scholars" has been in existence for more than 10 years, the repayment rate is running about 95 per cent, he said.
